anything by itself, we find it hitched to everything else in the universe.“ (John Muir)*

What is our Summer School 2016 about?

In the last decades, the term „globalization“ has gained increasing importance when describing the interconnectedness of markets, business, products and labor forces. One example of this process is the European Union, with Germany being at the center of this development. Entrepreneurship and innovation have become important parts of Western countries´ economies, especially in the context of innovation and job creation.

Held in Münster, Germany, our Summer School will not only provide you with theoretical knowledge about Innovation, Entrepreneurship and Intercultural Management, but also make you experience and observe what you have learned in class. Come and join us!
